If we could write an advertisement, or put up a talk that would convince every prospective purchaser of a buggy in this end of the state that we are positively selling the

Highest Grade Buggy

That is sold in this section. The fault is with us and not the buggy. We have that very thing and are proving it with the

Broadest Guarantee

You ever had given you on any vehicle you ever bought. We know it doesn't make any difference to you why we can sell at such extremely low prices but it does to some people. We heard last week that a buggy man said we must steal our jobs and get them shipped "DEAD HEAD" by the railroad. However, that may be, we leave you to judge.

Candidates For Congress Put Up Assessments For Expenses.

A. O. Stanley Gets the First Place On the Ballot and E. P. Taylor Last.

Henderson, Ky., July 1.—The Democratic congressional committee for the second district, met here at two o'clock this afternoon to receive the assessments of the candidates and attend to other matters.

The three candidates, E. P. Taylor, J. B. Brasher and A. O. Stanley, were present, and each put up his part of the required $2,000.

In the drawing for places on the ballot, Stanley got first, Brasher second and Taylor third.

The printing of the ballots was placed in the hands of Chas. M. Meacham, of Hopkinsville.

There was nothing done about changing the day of the primary from August 2.

All of the committeemen were present in person or by proxy except Geo. V. Green and T. A. Pedley. The committee will meet at Dawson August 9 to canvass the returns and declare the result.

IN PRISON.

Hopkinsville Endeavorers Left for Eddyville This Morning.

Members of the Endeavor Societies, of the First Presbyterian, Christian, Episcopal and Cumberland Presbyterian churches left on the M.C. train this morning at 5 o'clock for Eddyville. They will conduct an all day service in the prison for the inmates. Great good has been done by the prison work in this state since it was organized six or seven years ago. Then the Endeavorers did not meet, to wit: a very warm reception by the officers of the prison. But now it is entirely different. The prisoners in large numbers have joined the societies organized at Frankfort and Eddyville, and so great has the change been in the conduct of the prisoners, that it is quite common for the Christian workers to be invited by those having control of the unfortunate to visit the institution.

We have been able to secure the names of part of those who went to Eddyville this morning, to wit: Rev. H. D. Smith, of the Christian church, Miss Jennie Glass, Secretary of the Prison Work committee of the State; Mr. D. F. Smithson, Miss Clara Bonte, Rev. Abbott, rector of Grace church; Mr. A. M. Wallis, Miss Graeme Campbell, Mr. Chas. Anderson, Miss Maggie Hill and Mr. Trigg Hunter.

Stowe-Hord.

Miss Nettie Hord, the pretty and popular daughter of Mr. J. G. Hord of this city, was married to Mr. J. W. Stowe, of Clarksville, Wednesday.

The event occurred at the residence of Mr. James P. Roper, uncle of the bride, in Nashville.

The couple was accompanied by Miss Maud Cassler, of this city, and Mr. Frazer Williams, of Lafayette.

The groom is a son of Mr. G. Howard Stowe, of Julien, and is a rising young business man who enjoys a wide popularity.

His bride is a young woman of unusual beauty and is one of the brightest and most popular ladies of the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Stowe arrived here Wednesday night to spend a few days with the bride's parents and will go to Clarksville the first of next week, where they will reside.

Reception Tuesday Afternoon.

Mrs. Thos. D. Armistead gave a delightful reception on the afternoon of July 1st, that was attended by about fifty ladies. Refreshments were served.

CONGRESS QUITS.

House Members Forget Dignity And Have a High Old Time.

Senate's Last Act Was to Kill An Investigating Resolution.

Washington, July 1.—Amid a scene of enthusiasm that has not been paralleled since the exciting and stirring days of the Spanish war, Speaker Henderson, at 5:30 this afternoon, declared the House of Representatives adjourned without a day. In doing so he said that no House of Representatives since the adoption of the Constitution had done as much work as this one.

The audience to which he made his brief address was a brilliant one. The galleries were banked to the doors and almost two-thirds of the members were in their seats on the floor.

The Speaker's appreciative words to the members in thanking them for their co-operation during the session had touched a responsive cord and they gave him a remarkable demonstration of their friendship and good will. While the cheering and applause were still in progress, the members on the floor began singing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." It was taken up by the correspondents in the press gallery over the Speaker's chair and by the spectators in the vast hall was ringing with the swelling chorus.

Other patriotic airs followed as the members exchanged farewells, "The Star Spangled Banner" alternating with "Dixie."

SHAKES THE RAFTERS.

The Speaker came down from his rostrum, his appearance on the floor being greeted with "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and a perfect rush of members to grasp his hand. Standing in the area in front of the clerk's desk, he too, joined in the songs, and there was a wild scene when Gen. Hooker, of Mississippi, the one-armed Confederate veteran, took his place by the side of the Speaker and together they sang "Dixie." Mr. Candier, a Mississippi Democrat, jumped upon a desk and gave a yell of jubilation that fairly shook the rafters.

For almost half an hour the jubilation continued. All this time the spectators remained standing in the galleries, watching the animated scene below and joining in the singing.

The adjournment came at the end of a seven and a half hours' session during which much minor business was transacted. In all seventy bills and resolutions were passed.

IN THE SENATE.

Closing Hours Marked by a Rather Tart Debate.

Washington, July 1.—After a session marked by some of the stormiest debates ever heard in the American Congress, the Senate adjourned sine die at 5:30 this afternoon.

During the last hours of the session there was a tart debate on the question on the part of Messrs. Carmack, of Tennessee, Spooner, of Wisconsin, Culbertson, of Texas, McComas, of Maryland, and Lodge, of Massachusetts.

The conference report on the Philippine government bill was adopted with very little discussion, and then the Senate decks were cleared for adjournment. Mr. Carmack called up his resolution providing for a continuance of the investigation of the Philippine committee and for a visit to the Philippines by the committee during the present summer. This started the trouble and for more than an hour a battle of words was waged. Mr. Spooner delivered a scathing denunciation of the minority of the Philippine committee for what he declared was an attack upon the

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

Woman Instantly Killed and Others Badly Shocked.

During the rainstorm last Monday lightning struck the residence of Mr. Geo. Crick, seven miles northeast of Crofton, on McFarland creek, instantly killing his daughter, Mrs. Sarah Mosley, and severely shocking other members of the family.

Mrs. Mosley had just stepped into a room adjoining the family room, and, as she caught hold of the knob of the door to open it, was struck down. The lightning hit the chimney and darting down a rafter followed the wall to the ground. The building was considerably damaged. Mrs. Mosley was 21 years old and was the oldest daughter of Mr. Crick, with whom she made her home. The other members of Mr. Crick's family, although badly shocked, will recover.

AN ELEPHANT'S EDUCATION.

How the Hugh Animal Is Taught Various Circus Tricks.

Although the elephant is not a carnivorous animal, says London Answers, he is dangerous at times. If you want to teach an elephant to stand on his hind legs, you have to be very careful. Chains are placed round his hind quarters, and he is then hoisted by pulleys into the air often enough for him to understand what is required of him. To teach these bulky creatures to pose is very difficult. One well-known position is one elephant standing with his forepaws on the hindquarters of another, while he flourishes his trunk in a theatrical attitude. To teach him to do this you first have to pass a chain round his neck and another round his trunk.

The assistants haul away on the neck chain until the animal begins to choke. Naturally, he rises on his hind legs in order to be able to breathe. Then the trunk cable is hauled on, and the elephant, on whose back he is to place his forepaws, is backed under them. Curiously enough, elephants dislike this treatment, and often, after a severe lesson, will attack their teacher.

If you want a waiting elephant, you will have to engage a number of strong assistants, who will push the elephant round, some at either end of the great beast. You then shout "Waite!" and all begin pushing. Soon the elephant learns to whir, on the sound of the word, of his own accord.

Such tricks as ringing a bell, grinding an organ, are simple and effective. You simply put the object in the elephant's trunk and shake it for him.

When he dances with tinkling bells round his feet, one foot at a time is lifted and shaken by the assistants.

BY TELEGRAPH.

The Little Ticker Helps the Great World to Amuse Itself.

"Doing things by telegraph is a hobby now," said an observant man to a writer for the New Orleans Times-Democrat, and it seems that there are but few things which may not transpire in this way. I read, a little while ago, about a marriage ceremony which had been performed in this way. It was a Chicago man, of course, who figured as the male principal, for they do strange things, you know, in Chicago. Chess games are played over the wire. The cable is even pressed into service by the experts who engage in the international games of chess. Long distance games are becoming common. In a little while, I guess, progressive euchre, seven up, poker, casino, old maid, solitaire and all the other games will be played over the wire. Yes, solitaire. Why shouldn't a man play with himself at long range? Why shouldn't a man telegraph to himself if he wants to? There is no law against it. It might be amusing. It might entertain. These things have been suggested by the series of bowling games which are now in progress between New Orleans and Mobile, games which are being played over the wire. It is a good thing. I like the idea. It might not do in poker. You couldn't see the other fellow's face. You couldn't tell a bluff from a dead straight thing. But wire playing is all right, and I guess after awhile men will be doing by telegraph. There's no telling.

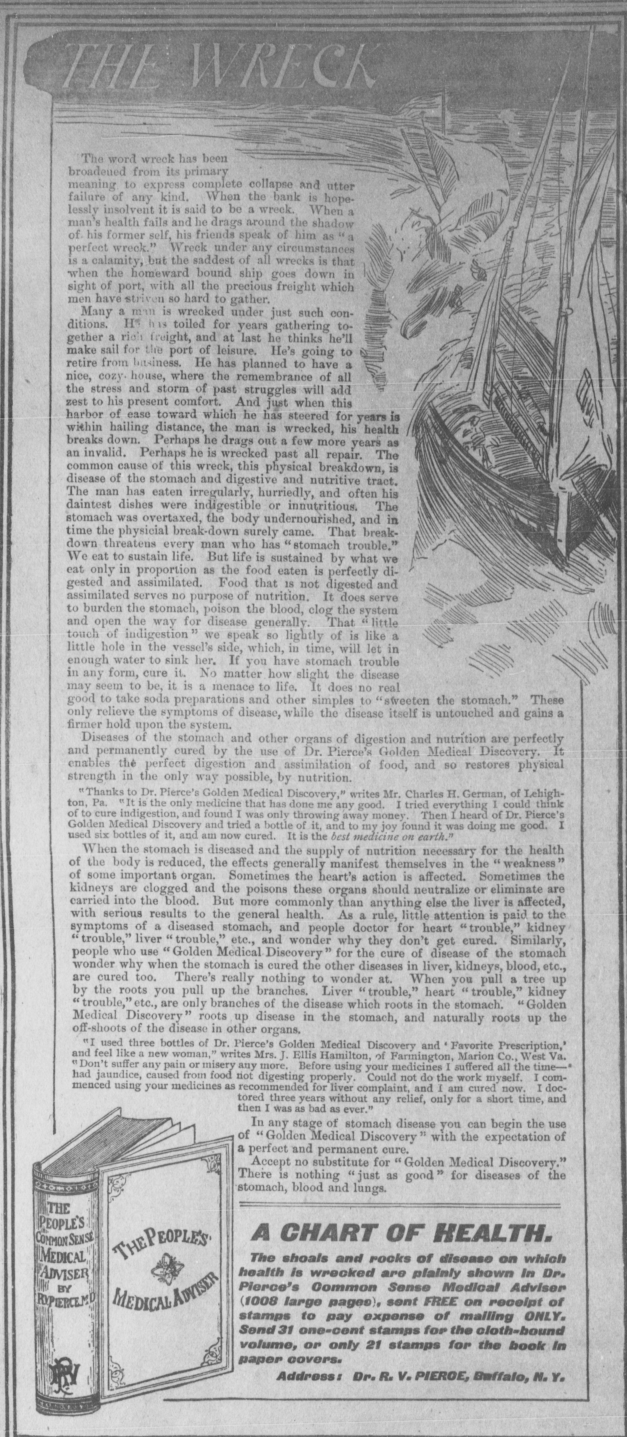

ALUMINIUM RUBIES.

Precious Stones the Result of Combustion of Metal.

"Metals may be burned for the sake of the heat and light they produce, just as ordinary fuels are burned," said Prof. Roberts-Austen in a recent discourse at the Royal institution. But the burning of metals, he proceeded to show, differs from that of ordinary fuels in that the products of combustion are not gaseous, but solid. "The burning of aluminium gives sapphires and rubies in the place of ashes." An instance of burning metal for the sake of light is furnished by the "magnesium star," a contrivance by which a shell, packed with magnesium and attached to a parachute is fired electrically in the air, thus producing an illumination of the ground beneath at night. This finds its use in warfare. Recently aluminium has been found to be an admirable fuel for producing an intense heat to be used in welding. This kind of metallic fuel has assumed much industrial importance at Essen, in Germany, where, in consequence, metallurgy enters upon a new phase—London Answers.

British Exportation of Cats.

Eighty thousand cats are yearly exported from Great Britain. The total number in these islands is estimated at 7,000,000.

The word wreck has been broadened from its primary meaning to express complete collapse and utter failure of any kind. When the bank is hopelessly insolvent it is said to be a wreck. When a man's health fails and he drags around the shadow of his former self, his friends speak of him as a wreck. Wreck under any circumstances is a calamity, but the saddest of all wrecks is that when the homeward bound ship goes down in sight of port, with all the precious freight which men have striven so hard to gather.

Many a man is wrecked under just such conditions. He is toiled for years gathering together a rich freight, and at last he thinks he'll make sail for the port of leisure. He's going to retire from business. He has planned to have a nice, cozy house, where the remembrance of all the stress and storm of past struggles will add zest to his present comfort. And just when this harbor of ease toward which he has steered for years is within hailing distance, the man is wrecked, his health breaks down. Perhaps he drags out a few more years as an invalid. Perhaps he is wrecked past all repair. The common cause of this wreck, this physical breakdown, is disease of the stomach and digestive and nutritive tract. The man has eaten irregularly, hurriedly, and often his faintest dishes were indigestible or injurious. The stomach was overtaxed, the body undernourished, and in time the physical break-down surely came. That breakdown threatens every man who has "stomach trouble." We eat to sustain life. But life is sustained by what we eat only in proportion as the food eaten is perfectly digested and assimilated. Food that is not digested and assimilated serves no purpose of nutrition. It does serve to burden the stomach, poison the blood, clog the system and open the way for disease generally. That "little touch of indigestion" we speak so lightly of is like a little hole in the vessel's side, which, in time, will let in enough water to sink her. If you have stomach trouble in any form, cure it. No matter how slight the disease may seem to be, it is a menace to life. It does no real good to take soda preparations and other simples to "strengthen the stomach." These only relieve the symptoms of disease, while the disease itself is untouched and gains a firmer hold upon the system.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are perfectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, and so restores physical strength in the only way possible, by nutrition.

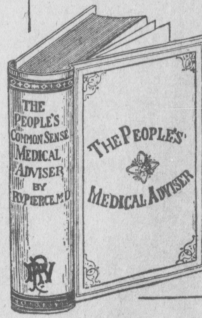

"Thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. Charles H. German, of Leighton, Pa. "It is the only medicine that has done me any good. I tried everything I could think of to cure indigestion, and found I was only throwing away money. Then I heard of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and tried a bottle of it, and to my joy found it was doing me good. I used six bottles of it, and am now cured. It is the best medicine on earth."

When the stomach is diseased and the supply of nutrition necessary for the health of the body is reduced, the effects generally manifest themselves in the "weakness" of some important organ. Sometimes the heart's action is affected. Sometimes the kidneys are clogged and the poisons these organs should neutralize or eliminate are carried into the blood. But more commonly than anything else the liver is affected, with serious results to the general health. As a rule, little attention is paid to the symptoms of a diseased stomach, and people doctor for heart "trouble," kidney "trouble," liver "trouble," etc., and wonder why they don't get cured. Similarly, people who use "Golden Medical Discovery" for the cure of disease of the stomach wonder why when the stomach is cured the other diseases in liver, kidneys, blood, etc., are cured too. There's really nothing to wonder at. When you pull a tree up by the roots you pull up the branches. Liver "trouble," heart "trouble," kidney "trouble," etc., are only by-products of the disease which roots in the stomach. "Golden Medical Discovery" roots up disease in the stomach, and naturally roots up the off-shoots of the disease in other organs.

"It used three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription,' and I feel like a new woman," writes Mrs. J. Ellis Hamilton, of Farmington, Marion Co., West Va. "Don't suffer any pain or misery any more. I feel like a new woman. I had jaundice, caused from food not digesting properly. Could not do the work myself. I commenced using your medicines as recommended for liver complaint, and I am cured now. I doctored three years without any relief, only for a short time, and then I was as bad as ever."

In any stage of stomach disease you can begin the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" with the expectation of a perfect and permanent cure.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

DR. MOFFETT'S TEETHINA
(TEETHING POWDERS)
Cures Cholera-Infantum, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, and the Bowel Troubles of Children of Any Age. Aids Digestion, Regularizes the Bowels, Strengthens the Child and Makes TEETHING EASY.

Costs only 25 cents at Druggists.

Or mail 25 cents to C. J. MOFFETT, M. D., ST. LOUIS, MO.

I have found Dr. Moffett's TEETHINA a valuable remedy and aid for my teething children. When my eldest son was teething, every day he was crying and he would not eat. I gave him Dr. Moffett's TEETHINA, and he began to eat and was happy. I have since used it on all my children and have found it a valuable remedy for all teething children. I found it valuable even after the teething period was passed.

TRIVIAL MOVE BETRAYED HIM

Little Things Often Put Detectives on a Criminal's Trail.

"Trivial incidents that in nine cases out of ten would escape a pretty close observer often furnish the clue by which detectives make some pretty clever arrests," said a veteran detective the other night to a Milwaukee Sentinel reporter. "Now, I remember one case in point. During the G. A. R. encampment here a year ago, Sweeney, my partner, and I had been working hard all day and dropped into a joint over on Second street about 11 o'clock. Sweeney took a seat on one side of the entrance and I on the other. The interior was screened to a certain extent by some potted plants on each side of the doorway.

"As we sat there an old fellow came in and a 'nigger' water rushed up to him, and, although we couldn't hear what he said, presumably asked him what he had. The old fellow didn't sit down in the chair that the waiter had pulled out for him, and while they were talking the waiter looked directly at me over the shoulder of the old fellow, who stood with his back to us. Without another word the old fellow turned and walked out of the door. We thought the incident peculiar and determined to follow the man. He started down Second street toward the Milwaukee road and we took the other side of the street and followed. On the east side of the street there was a saloon, and we crossed the street before the fellow got there and stopped him at the door.

"Good evening, my friend," said Sweeney, smoothly, "are you a grand army man?"

"Yes," he replied, as he eyed us suspiciously and backed away, with his hand making for his hip pocket.

"What regiment?" asked Sweeney. "The fellow hesitated, then, backing away, suddenly swung around and darted toward the railroad yards. I was after him in a moment, caught him by the coat tail and then it was nip and tuck for a block. I stumbled and fell heavily, but held on like a bulldog, and finally threw my man heels over head. I was sore and bruised all over, but managed to get up and give my man an awful blow over the nose as he pulled a Colt revolver from his pocket. "Well, to cut the story short, we found a bunch of the goods on him, and early the next morning the chief of police at Jernville telegraphed to us to hold the man, as he was wanted there for burglary. We turned him over and he got three years in the 'pen,' where he died before his term had expired. If that fellow had sat down in that chair, we wouldn't have thought anything of it, but that move of his 'queered' him."

ON PARROTS.

Apparently No Limit to Their Capacity for Imitation of Sounds.

There seems no limit to the capacity for acquiring the human language possessed by this intelligent bird. It often picks up not only words, but long sentences, which have been pronounced in its presence on a single occasion only. While as for domestic sounds of all kinds, from the whimpering of an infant to the crowing of cocks, and even the song of a canary bird, all these are readily acquired. The male is, however, given to screaming when angry or agitated. It sometimes associates words with things. One owned by Mr. Green would yell "Potato" if it saw a potato, and so loudly that it could never be admitted to that meal, for it always dropped the potato and shouted for more. There is an idea that the brilliantly colored parrots do not talk. There is no reason why they should not, and many possess the imitative instinct. One of the most richly colored of all is the purple-capped lory, from the Moluccas. Its whole plumage is crimson and rose, its wings green and its crest purple. It is a thick-set bird, like a big bullfinch, and can be highly educated. It is tame and gentle, an excellent "linguist" and mimics, never shrieks, and is very amiable. It is also a ventriloquist. It is worth noting that some of the lories, which are very fond of flowers, have been poisoned by being given a mercury blossom. There is a belief that parrots should not be allowed water to drink, but only sopped food. We believe that this is a mistake which causes them great misery. They are not great water drinkers, and some species can go without it for a considerable time. But in their native state most of those which have been observed come regularly to the water holes to drink.—London Spectator.

THE SHOP-STAMPED FACE.

How One's Circumstances Are Apt to Reflect Themselves in the Countenance.

"I wish I could get the stamp of the store out of my face," said a bright young shop girl during one of the confidential luncheon chats that are sometimes unavoidably overheard, records the New York Herald.

"You," asserted her older and better dressed companion, "but you cannot expect that until you are lucky married."

"Oh, I don't know that that is impossible," and the younger one shrugged her shoulders rather gracefully.

"You may laugh," nodded the older, "but if you would follow my prescription you might acquire a placid expression that very considerably improves the case of comfort."

"All right, you are my doctor; now go ahead," and the girl pushed back her plate and leaned her chin in her hands.

"When I first married," said the older woman, "I felt as if studying my mirror, Tom had said so much about my looking tired, and there was no excuse for my being tired, so I concluded that it was the wear and tear of life in the store which had added things to my face."

"Upon close examination I found a little tiny wrinkle on my brow. It was so straight and unbending that I decided it sprouted and grew under the baneful influence of various and sundry door walkers, and as I had graduated from floor walker and other stern things I ordered the wrinkle out."

"Another, but knicker one, in a quivering and disagreeable way, was becoming too much attached to the outer corner of my eye. That, I decided, was the rent day wrinkle. It was capable of such an infinite number of positions that it could only have come from the many fierce skirmishes I had had with my dear, darling landladies."

"One little one," she went on, "just below my eye, came from the fear I always nursed of the day when I should be broke, out of a position and sick, so I called that my hospital wrinkle; and another one, a little lower, came from squinting my disdain at the picturesque corner stagers, who think they have an affinity for every shop girl who looks the least bit hungry."

"After all these classifications I told my mirror that we were to have a daily consultation, that I was in love with my husband, who was in love with me, and that, inasmuch as there were to be no more worries or cares of the store variety, therefore there were to be no more wrinkles, and with a sweep of her hand over the table "so you see me, a most placid and contented woman."

DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED.

A Modern Young Amnesia Who Will Be More Cautious in Future.

There is a young man in Milwaukee who recently came into possession of an ancient-looking pearl-handled revolver, for which he had no use, being of a retiring and inoffensive disposition. However, he was not inclined to economy, nor inseparably united to the truth, so one day when coffee and rolls became a serious problem he recalled to mind the revolver and also an enthusiastic collector of antiques with whom he is acquainted. He presented his case to the collector thus: "There is a gun that has defused a house more than once. My uncle carried it in the civil war from '62 to '65. He was a lieutenant. At the close of the war he gave it to my grandmother, who gave it to me last winter."

The collector said: "That makes it very interesting. May I look at it?" The young man handed him the weapon. The collector looked at the name, and, turning to its side, said: "Did you ever notice this mark on the inside, my friend?"

The young man looked and saw stamped on the barrel: "Pat. Apr. 23, 1876."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

British Museum Newspapers.

The question of finding storeroom for the vast accumulation of newspapers at the British Museum will be solved by the government purchasing a site of about six acres at Hendon for the erection of a building in which to store the newspapers, and a preliminary vote of £3,000 this year towards the total of £15,000 required for the site and building has been placed upon this session's civil service estimates. It is not intended that anything in the shape of a reading room shall be established there, the papers being available at Bloomsbury, as at present, for persons who wish to refer to them, and who give a day's notice of their desire.

WANTED THE FULL COURSE.

The Foreigner Was Bound to Follow the American to the End.

It was in the dining-room of one of the leading hotels in Milwaukee. At one of the tables sat an American, who, to judge from his appearance, was well to do, while opposite him sat a man who, as his accent indicated, was of foreign birth. He was not quite so well dressed as the other, but, if actions and general demeanor are any criterion, he had recently come into possession of considerable wealth, which he was trying to spend as best a man of means.

The American was ordering a course dinner, which he began with oysters. Apparently the foreigner, feeling that he could afford it, had made up his mind not to miss anything good to eat, so long as money could buy it.

"Give me some oysters, too," said he.

Next the American called for soup. "I'll take some of that, also," said his visa-vis, when the latter had brought the soup.

Fish, porterhouse steak with mushrooms, chicken and many other things calculated to tickle the palate of an epicure were brought on and consumed. Mr. Newly Rich keeping a close watch on the American's dishes and asking for the various articles as fast as he saw them placed before the other.

The American, thoroughly annoyed by the apishness of the would-be swell, now decided to make an effort to end the matter then and there.

"Waiter," said he, beckoning to that functionary, "send me a boot-black."

"Bring me one, too," said the foreigner; "I don't know what it is, but bring me one, anyway!"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Sleep and Longevity.

A new theory of longevity has made its appearance. A man has a definite number of waking hours allotted to him, says the originator of the idea, "and the fewer he uses up the longer will his life last. 'If therefore, he is content to sleep for the most of his days there is no reason why he should not live 200 years.' He adduces the case of the negroes as an illustration. The chances are that the only truth in this theory is the well-recognized fact that eight-hours' sleep is not sufficient for most mortals, and that those who habitually take less shorten their lives by so doing.

Japanese Houses.

Japanese houses in the larger cities are of one general shape, two stories high, and put together by a curious method of mortising, at which these people are adepts, not one nail being used throughout the construction of the building.

Prof. John B. Taylor Elected on The 47th Ballot.

New Man Comes Well Recommended—Assumes Duties July 20.

The school board on Tuesday night elected Prof. John B. Taylor, of Middlesboro, superintendent. He was the last to enter the race, arriving on Saturday. At that time the race had been virtually decided in favor of Prof. Snider, of Paducah, with Prof. Stover, of Knoxville, the contending man. Prof. Taylor obtained the support of one of Snider's friends and one of Stover's, and after 46 fruitless ballots, the two remaining Stover men went to him and elected him on the 47th ballot. The election was then made unanimous and the salary fixed at $1,600, the former figures. The new superintendent will take charge July 20. Prof. McCartney has already entered upon his new duties at Henderson. Prof. Taylor was born in Ohio county, Ky., and is 33 years old. He is a graduate of the Indiana State Normal school, and has had 11 years experience, the last three years as superintendent at Middlesboro, Ky., a school nearly as large as ours. He succeeded Prof. S. L. Frogge at Middlesboro and Prof. McHenry Rhodes, of Owensboro.

Prof. Taylor has a wife and 3 children, is a Methodist and a Democrat, though his politics and religion were not known or inquired into until after his election.

He is stoutly built, of medium height, without beard and of pleasing address.

Don't Wait Until Fall TO BEGIN TO BUILD.

It takes a month or more to get the plan question settled, and the best houses can not be built in a hurry. A house built in the winter is seldom satisfactory, and a fall beginning means a winter ending. Furthermore, prices on all materials are generally higher in the fall. Then too, most people wait till then to build, and work brings a higher price when there is a great deal of it. Hence you have everything to gain and nothing to lose by building in the Spring and Summer.

If You Wish to Build This Year Build Now.
